

One day there was a boy called JJ and a dog called Taco . He lived in the country side next to the woods in an old crooked house along with his brother, dog, mum and dad. JJ loved exploring in the woods and taco loved running around.

One delightful morning JJ woke up and saw snow sparkling in the sky. He jumped out of his squeaky old bed and excitedly called his dog to come for an adventure.

They sprinted out of their crooked old house and went to play in the dazzling white snow, after a while JJ discovered some footprints leading to a dark creepy forest at the back of JJs house so they decided to investigate. JJ and Taco zoomed off to follow the footprints that led them into the amazing woods.

The woods were dark with lots of spooky shadows and felt damp and cold. The birds could be heard tweeting in the shallow trees and JJ felt excited about the new adventure and felt safe in Tacos company.

Following the footprints felt like hours but eventually JJ and Taco came to a giant cave that they had never seen before. Taco started barking at the entrance of the cave.

JJ walked into the creepy cave with taco. Suddenly a man jumped down which made JJ freeze with fright. The man looked wrinkly with ripped clothes and in his hand was a crystal white sword that gleamed in the light. In a strange voice JJ mumbled "is it excaliber?"

Instantly JJ shouted " king Arthur!" while taco barked in agreement. Arthur had lived in these caves for centuries and no one had ever been able to find him. Many years ago Arthur was involved in a battle which he lost so decided to hide in the caves to keep safe. Arthur looked worried that he was found by JJ and Taco and ran towards them but they were already running out of the cave. They ran past some reindeer's, frozen waterfalls and past a ravine and finally reached their home. Taco ran into the house and lay by the fire, mum was watching the news and was surprised to see JJ and taco rush into the house. JJ started to explain his adventure but his mum did not believe him and sent him straight to bed. JJ searched for the cave again for weeks but never found it.

So the legend of king Arthur will continue.

Jack